COLOR INSTRUCTIONS.

There are no colored lights on building.

In your letter regarding illumination of windows you mention that this could be done from night view picture of building at no additional cost, if customer so desired. We have taken this up with customer and he hesitates to advise brightening windows if this would detract from the light bulb illumination scheme. However, our customer says that our judgement on this score should be superior to his and leaves this matter largely to us. The Allis Press will in turn have to let Curt Teich make final judgement on this matter. We are anxious to give our customer an attractive edition of post cards and would like to put as much life into the card as possible, while at the same time keeping the customer's idea in mind.

COLOR INSTRUCTIONS

The ceiling is dark blue, and in making the hand colored proof, take out as many lines as you can in the squares without any extra cost.

This theatre is painted in Moorish effect. The walls are rather a cream yellow, with a little tinge of gold and blue. The left-side columns are English effect and the columns are square, with a kind of an effect of circassian walnut, and of course the shawls that are hanging over the balconies are to be of an English effect. The columns on the boxes are tan with rather a brownish effect. The coat of arms in the middle of the theatre carries out an effect of cardinal red, light yellow and dark blue. The streamers from the ceiling to the coat of arms are light blue. In fact, the whole color effect is an intermingle of those three colors--yellow, blue and cardinal red.

The drop curtain is of a very light golden effect, with a little Moorish effect interlaced. Tassels and fringe are of a cardinal effect.

The floor of the stage is light green, and the orchestra rail and also the gallery rail are cardinal red. The grating in the top boxes is the same color of green as the floor of the stage. The columns on the right hand side of the picture are of Spanish effect. The lamps on both sides are dark brass, with red lights. The tiling on both sides over the balconies and higher up, are a little lighted shade than the cardinal red.

The decorations below the columns on both sides and in the urns is green, with a very slight intermingle of golden. Now this is a very good picture, and should be well reproduced.
